

I am extremely disturbed by Sinclair Broadcasting's requirement that their stations air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. I do not believe that this sort of blatant propagandizing for one candidate serves the public interest. When Nightline aired a show listing the (then) over 700 dead servicemen and women, Sinclair refused to air the piece citing its bias. This concern for bias may have been misplaced with regard to a show memorializing brave Americans who died for this country, but that very same bias detector should have been operative when confronted with a piece of blatant propaganda.

As I understand it, it is the job of the FCC to police the airwaves. At such a partisan time as this, a strong FCC (and not a tool of big media and the Republic party) is needed now more than ever.

Thank you for your time.
